Ritemate Workwear is a workwear brand that is rapidly expanding on the Australian market.

Having a major involvement in the Australian Textile & Clothing industry over the last thirty years, the executives of Ritemate bring a wealth of experience and knowledge to a growing range of high quality products that are fast gaining popular consumer recognition amid a myriad of high profile workwear names.

When asked "what is the point of difference between Ritemate Workwear and other more well known and longer established brands", we are proud to say that though, Ritemate is 'the new kid on the block', our vast experience and wealth of knowledge within the textile & clothing industry allows us to offer consumers, through selected stockist a range of high quality work wear products with value for money in the Ritemate brand. Ritemate is backed up by the three important elements essential to the needs of consumers: "Service, Quality & Price". Our highly reputable parent company was established in 1977 and we would never have been around for that long without recognising the needs of our customers and following through with a service attitude that we believe is second to none"

Styling, fit and fabric performance are key features in the Ritemate range of industrial workwear & Hi visibility safety garments. Ritemate National Sales Manager, David Mair says "Practical designs, wearing comfort and hard wearing fabrics all combine to give our exciting new brand the acceleration that we are currently experiencing in this broad spectrum work wear market".

The distinctive and iconic Ritemate logo with the hand giving the proverbial 'thumbs up' sign is all about the Aussie larrikin attitude so I guess the accompanying caption says it all:
